“The tuition for Discover Architecture is some of the best money we have spent on our daughter's education! She learned that architecture is not what she thought it was. But learning this as a high school student gave her time to think it over without the pressure of already being enrolled in a college architecture program. Ultimately, she decided that she does want to pursue a career in architecture. She also got to know University of Illinois up close and personnel and found that she really liked the school not because of her parents' opinions but based on her own experience. She also learned that she can make new friends and the whole feeling of the unknown regarding going away to college has been greatly lessened for her. Thank you for offering this wonderful program. I highly recommend it!”

“[Discover Architecture] showed me a lot about what architects look for in buildings and how much work goes into drawing a building. I also was very amazed to see the transfer from a drawn picture of somewhere in the architecture building and we made it into line drawings, shape, and figure drawings and then you made it into your very own building!”

“It went above and beyond my expectations. I love how we went through all the major steps of a final project and I really got the feel of what a college class would be like.”

“I thoroughly enjoyed this experience because it gave me a nice outlook onto what will be expected during this career. Although the studio hours were long and it was different because it was a lot of drawing, I was able to realize that it was in fact fun work and I could see myself doing this as my major.”

“Although the schedule gave early lectures and long hours in the studios, it was a great outlook to this career. My favorite part of the camp was the visit to Columbus, I have been able to look up some architects and get a better view of their architecture. Since the camp, I have been able to read the books given to us and I do find them interesting and helpful. All the TAs, Professors and RAs were friendly, helpful, and let us have fun. The worst part was simply having to wake up so early!”

“I feel like the two weeks I spent in the Discover Architecture program really helped me understand what being an architect is all about. It was a great deal of work, but it was all worth it in the end when I saw my idea come to life.”
